LaFollette Demands Facts On Hard Coal Finances

WILL ASK FOR SENATE PROBE AFTER RECESS

Senator King Presents Bill to Authorize Delegates at Arms Conclave
DRYS WIN FIRST BATTLE
Resolution in Upper House to Hamper Enforcement Is Buried in Defeat

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin asked the dry department for a report showing the financial ramifications of the antiracket coal operators.
Immediate consideration of the resolution was blocked by senator Reed, (Rep.) Pennsylvania.
It would have figures furnished from the income tax returns of 1924 covering capital stock, invested capital, net income, depletion and depreciation of accounts and federal taxes paid by each anthracite corporation.
Later Senator LaFollette said the public was entitled to the information requested in his resolution in view of the mine suspension and that he would press for its early consideration immediately after the holidays.

FOR ARMS PARLEY
Participation by the United States in the forthcoming League of Nations disarmament conference would be authorized in a resolution introduced Tuesday by Senator King, (Dem.).
It was said at the White House that the study being made by the president was "of a constructive and affirmative" nature.

It has not been completed nor has the additional information regarding the scope of the Geneva commission been received as yet. There was no indication when the Washington government would be able to transmit its reply.
The resolution which Senator King asked to have temporarily laid aside would authorize the president to name delegates to represent the United States.

President Coolidge is working on a reply to the League of Nations invitation to a preliminary disarmament discussion in an effort to find a way to accept.

DRYS WIN
In the first showdown on prohibition this session, house drys Tuesday swept aside by a vote of 189 to 17 a proposal to restrict the use of funds for the purchase of liquor as evidence.

The proposal was in the form of an appropriation bill amendment and would have prohibited resort to "fraud, deceit or falsehood in the use of any of the $250,000 set aside by the bill for buying evidence."
The amendment was offered by Representative Tucker, (Dem.) Virginia, a dry and was defeated by a rising vote, so that the attitude of individual members was not placed on record.

After sharp debate, the house approved the appropriations in the treasury bill for prohibition enforcement for the next year.

Good Fellows Must Raise $1,700 In Two Days To Feed Poor This Winter

With Christmas only two days away, $1,700 still remains to be raised to reach the $3,000 required by Appleton Welfare council to carry on its work for the relief of suffering among the city's poor. Good Fellows will have to subscribe at the rate of $550 a day to reach that total. That is not an impossible sum when one considers that there still are 2,500 people in Appleton who can give but haven't given to the poor this year. If each one of these 2,500 would give only a little it would be more than enough to reach the goal.

There are in Appleton hundreds of executives, doctors, lawyers, businessmen, mechanics, office employees and laborers who are well able to give to the poor who thus far haven't given a cent. They are not giving because they can't afford it. They can afford to drive automobiles, to buy gifts for their friends, to enjoy all the things of life. They also can afford to give to those who haven't anything. The trouble with them is that their hearts are hard. They haven't been touched by the distress that is around them; they are too self-centered to note the suffering of the poor who can't help themselves.

The children who will benefit from the bounty of the Good Fellows are not destitute, cold, hungry through any fault of their own. They are the children of the poor who are poor because their parents are poor. They have just as much right to ordinary comforts as the children of the wealthy. It is just a misfortune that they are destitute. And the mothers of these children are in their destitute condition through no fault of their own. Illness, misfortune, accidents have pulled them down until there is nothing left for them. The fathers, brought up in ignorance, have never had the chance to rise out of their environment and with jobs insecure they struggle through as well as they can.

It is for such as these that the Welfare council is appealing to Appleton people to be Good Fellows. The poor need your help. It is not the intention to provide them with luxuries, but they will be given necessities. Even necessities will be denied them unless there are more Good Fellows. You have two days more in which to help. Clip the coupon in this paper and send it with your contribution to the Good Fellows Club of the Post-Crescent. This will be the Christmas gift which will give you the greatest happiness.

GENERAL SMOKED OUT OF POSITION

Butler Resigns from Marines Only to Find He Loses Safety Director Job.

Philadelphia, Pa.—(AP)—Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler Tuesday announced he had resigned from the United States marine corps in order to remain in Philadelphia as director of public safety, and an hour later Mayor Kendrick made known that he would not accept the general in the position "as a resigned officer of the marine corps."

The general was called into conference with the mayor after his resignation became known when he left the mayor's office the general hurried to his own room and announced the mayor "refused to accept me as a resigned officer of the marine corps." "Then you don't want me?" Butler said he asked the mayor.
"Not as a resigned officer," he quoted the mayor as saying.
"Now we see who has been smoked out," General Butler said.
He refused to elaborate at the moment on this terse comment on the mayor's action, except to say that his resignation from the marine corps could be recalled.

ARMY CHEMICS CHIEF WON'T BE MUZZLED

Suppression Policy of Secretary of War Starts Another Row in Service

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1925 by Post Pub. Co.

Washington, D. C.—Another row is coming to the surface in the army. It has been brewing for some time and it will raise acutely the question of just how much free speech there is in the military service of the United States, if any.

The test comes on the attitude of the chemical warfare service of the army which has seen fit to question the wisdom of the department of state in signing a protocol banning chemical warfare. Major General Amos A. Fries, chief of the chemical warfare service, is animated solely by the desire to place before the public his conception of the problem. He has done it respectfully by furnishing Washington correspondents with data relating to chemical warfare. He has not done what Colonel Mitchell did, namely to accuse the officials of another department of failing to do their duty. He has simply asked the public to examine the other side of a moot question. Yet the effect of his act is to ask congress to reject the protocol signed at the direction of the president of the United States through the department of state.

WOULD RECONCILE
It has been implied that the secretary of state and the secretary of war must reconcile their differences or the president will have to take sides. Now, however, the Associated Press carries a dispatch attributing to Secretary of War Davis a desire to put an end to friction inside the army and speaks of his intention to cut the tendency of some officers to combat policies some of which "are written into international treaties."
Undoubtedly there are other sore spots in the army but the trouble over the chemical warfare policy is the outstanding one. Mr. Davis has therefore served notice that he does not side with General Fries and that he will not permit officers of the army to combat policies of other departments, at least not in public print.

MUST SUBMIT
If they have recommendations or criticisms to make they must submit the same to their superior officers and when it comes to the secretary of war he in turn is the only one who can fight it out with another cabinet officer. This means that the president is the final arbiter. Congress, of course, can summon officers of the army and navy and by questioning and cross-examining bring out facts which in themselves may disclose criticism but the initiative must come from congress.

General Fries thinks a mistake in policy has been made and he is appealing to the public through the press to persuade congress to take a contrary view of chemical warfare than the one assumed by the department of state.

Will the secretary of war muzzle them all as he did Colonel Mitchell? The army and navy are all agog over the settlement of the issue.

CONGRESSMAN DEFENDS MITCHELL ARMY TRIAL

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—The army court that tried and sentenced Colonel William Mitchell for his criticism of the government air service was defended in the house Tuesday by Representative Wainwright of New York, a former Republican assistant secretary of war.

Mitchell's charges of incompetence against ranking army officers and even the secretary of war could not and should not go unpunished, said Mr. Wainwright.
The court martial gave the colonel the widest latitude in the admission of evidence, he continued, but found nothing to substantiate his charges.
Representative Schafer, (Rep.) Wisconsin, denounced the sentence of Colonel Mitchell, comparing the action to the "German Imperialistic policies."

SAYS NOTHING COULD AVERT BLIMP WRECK

Last Witness at Inquiry Testifies Shenandoah Disaster Was Inevitable

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—The long inquiry into the Shenandoah disaster was ended Tuesday when the naval court took the evidence under advisement on completion of final arguments.

The Shenandoah disaster falls in the category of an "inevitable accident," Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosenthal, senior surviving officer of the dirigible crash in Ohio last September declared in final argument before the naval court of inquiry into the accident in speaking for the surviving officers and men of the ship.

"Indisputable evidence shows," Commander Rosenthal asserted, "that in spite of heroic measures taken the disaster could not have been averted. The commanding officer did everything known to airship science to save his ship."

STILL HAVE FAITH
"Although we are survivors of one of the worst air accidents that has ever occurred, we nevertheless have not lost faith in rigid airships. We urge upon this court the advisability of its recommending the retention, continuation and furtherance of rigid airship development and operation in the navy."

Commander Rosenthal declared the court had held "one of the most searching, complete and comprehensive investigations, technical or otherwise, ever conducted," and paid tribute to many witnesses for their ability, knowledge and candor.

Of some others, however, he did not speak in such favorable terms. Concerning Colonel William Mitchell, he said:

BELITTLES MITCHELL
"It was apparent this witness had no expert knowledge of his own relative to the Shenandoah disaster, and any further examination of the witness to adduce testimony, expert or otherwise, or information of any value on this subject would have been unnecessary as well as futile."
Commander Rosenthal quoted extensively from the record to show that Lieutenant Commander Zachary Lansdowne, the commander of the Shenandoah who lost his life in the disaster, had acted with complete liberty and without undue interference from Washington, and declared that to insinuate that "he would jeopardize his crew and his ship wilfully and knowingly not only approaches the height of absurdity but slanders the dead."

The speaker defended the structural integrity of the Shenandoah as "unquestionably excellent," and said her valve system, frame and after parts were sound.

Frank A. Munsey, Famous Publisher, Dies Tuesday

New York—(AP)—Frank A. Munsey, newspaper publisher, 71, died shortly before 7 o'clock Tuesday morning in the Lenox Hill hospital.

Mr. Munsey had been suffering from peritonitis which developed following an operation for appendicitis on Dec. 13. Up to the last his physicians held out hope for his recovery but early Tuesday he suffered a sinking spell and the end came within a short time.

He had requested that his sister, Mrs. John M. Hyde, of St. Petersburg, Fla., not be sent for because of her great age and weakened condition.

Frank Andrew Munsey was 23 and a telegraph operator when he arrived in New York one cold, bleak day in the winter of 1882. He had come down to the metropolis from Maine, bringing all his property with him. It consisted of a grip-full of manuscripts, the clothes he had on, and $40 in cash. He was going to start a publishing business.

With all his troubles ahead of him he started to work, and two months later appeared the first number of the Argosy Magazine, then an illustrated weekly paper of eight pages for boys and girls. Horatio Alger, Jr., was one of the contributors. This was the beginning of a struggle which has had few if any parallels in the publishing world.

Forty years later, after one of the most remarkable demonstrations of having success out of failure ever seen in that particular business.

FIRE IN AUTOMOBILE REVEALS RUM CARGO

Green Bay—(AP)—Robert Denning and Thomas Berger, of Sheboygan, and a woman companion whose name was not learned but is said to be from Chicago, are being held by police here following the finding of five bottles of alleged liquor in their automobile which caught fire while parked on a downtown street here Monday. The party will be questioned by police.

PAROLED MAN THREATENS SUICIDE AND VANISHES

Manitowoc—Police have been unable to find a trace of Joseph Jorde, 55, an employee of the Manitowoc Floral company, who disappeared Sunday after a threat of suicide. Jorde is a paroled prisoner from Waupun where he served several years. He had been employed here for a year. An officer of the board of control will be here Tuesday to take charge of the search for Jorde.

Frank Andrew Munsey had become one of the foremost publishers in the United States, numbering his newspapers and magazines by the score and his wealth by the millions.

His most notable achievement in the newspaper field came in February, 1920, when he acquired the New York Herald, one of the oldest newspapers in the country, and merged with it the New York Sun, the Herald's senior by two years, which Mr. Munsey had purchased in 1916 and consolidated with the New York Press.

In 1891 he started Munsey's Weekly. He later changed it to Munsey's Magazine.

Six months after Munsey's magazine blazed the way, The Argosy shook off its juvenile cloak and entered the field of adult publications. Since that day it has made several fortunes for its owner.

In addition to the two publications whose histories are so closely bound up with his early life, Mr. Munsey acquired "The Scrap Book," "The Railroad Man's Magazine," the "All Story Magazine," "The Ocean," and others, and owned newspapers in New York, Washington, Boston, Philadelphia, and Baltimore. He also had extensive investments in other fields, and never permitted his capital to remain idle.

Mr. Munsey never married. He lived for many years at one of New York's fashionable hotels, and also maintained a country estate at Elizabethtown, N. Y.

THIEVES AT BELMONT TAKE 5 BAGS OF MAIL

Belmont—(AP)—Five sacks of registered mail, believed to be composed largely of Christmas parcel post packages were stolen from the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad station here between 4 and 5 o'clock Tuesday morning.
The robbers took tools from a nearby garage and forced an entrance to the railway station removing the registered mail which had been left at the station in a locked room.

SAYS MITCHELL REQUIRES LABEL OF BOB TO WIN

Superior—(AP)—Wisconsin's LaFollette crazy, according to John A. Cadigan, leading Democrat in northern Wisconsin, and Col. William Mitchell couldn't get elected to the senate unless he got the LaFollette label.
"Abraham Lincoln himself couldn't get elected to anything in Wisconsin if he came back unless he had the LaFollette label," he said.

SOUTH BACKS ILLINOIS IN WATER STEAL

Six Mississippi River States Reported Supporting Chicago in Suit

Chicago—(AP)—Attorneys general of six states between here and the mouth of the Mississippi river have agreed to back Illinois in the Lake Michigan division suit brought in the United States supreme court by Michigan, Wisconsin and other states to prevent any lake water flowing through the drainage canal into the lower navigational channels.

In this action, representatives of Louisiana, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas, who conferred here Monday with Chicago Association of Commerce officials, took the ground that their interests were identical with Illinois. It was maintained that a 10,000-cubic-foot-a-second flow is necessary to maintain permanent water levels in the lower Mississippi and assure year-round navigation.

At the same time impetus was given to the lakes-to-gulf waterway plan by the announcement of Attorney General Christman, Illinois, that the legal way is now clear to go ahead with the construction of the remaining locks in the Illinois River.

READY FOR SUIT

He said the state had just purchased the land necessary to immediate completion of locks between Lockport and Utica, and that he is ready to institute suits to acquire 1,400 acres of overflow land required and for the removal of the old earth dam at Marquette.

The Chicago conference was the outgrowth of the recent session of the Mississippi Valley association at St. Louis.

It was agreed that the state represented would ask leave to intervene in the supreme court suit. Any plea to be made, it was announced, will have nothing to do with the sanitary requirements of Chicago, around which the fight had been waged in the past, but will be predicated upon the need of water withdrawal from the lake for navigation purposes. The lakes-to-gulf waterway runs through the Illinois drainage canal, the Des Plaines river, the Illinois river to the Mississippi.

The proposal was for a transpolar non-stop flight from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Spitzbergen next spring. On the basis of the legal opinion, Mayo was advised that if congress acted favorably on a resolution authorizing the war department to lend equipment and personnel, it would do so.

STRIKE PARLEY HITS NEW SNAG

Resumption of Miners Wage Negotiations Before Christmas Not Likely.

Scranton, Pa.—(AP)—Prospects of resumption of wage negotiations between anthracite operators and miners before Christmas appeared slight Tuesday.

Mayor John Durkan, chairman of a committee of mayors and burgesses of the hard coal field, was hopeful that the opposing groups would be brought together in the near future. The committee's plans for a meeting here Tuesday were abandoned when the operators insisted on written assurances that the miners would not limit the discussion to Governor Pinchot's peace plan. This plan provides for a limited check-off and an inquiry as to the possibility of wage increase.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine workers, had accepted Mayor Durkan's invitation to attend the meeting Tuesday night after being advised late Monday night of the operators' new cancelled his arrangements to come to Scranton and made preparations to spend the Christmas holidays at his home in Springfield, Ill.

FORD WILLING TO BACK ARMY POLAR FLIERS

Automobile King's Engineer Submits Proposal to Secretary of War

CONGRESS ACTION NEEDED

Project Calls for Non-Stop Trip from Point Barrow to Spitzbergen

New York—(AP)—A non-stop airplane flight across the north pole, possibly backed by Henry Ford is now in prospect according to reports current here.

Partial substantiation of the report is contained in admission by McCook field authorities at Dayton, Ohio, that two of the best known fliers in the army had been invited to pilot a plane from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Spitzbergen across the top of the world. Mr. Ford could not be reached Monday night.

Mr. Ford has turned his attention to airplane manufacture recently and owns an all-metal plane which, it is believed, will be used on the proposed flight. Information here indicates that Mr. Ford conferred with those interested in the flight some weeks ago.

STEFANSSON FOR IT

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, noted Arctic explorer, is said to be the moving spirit of the expedition which, it is thought, will leave next April or May.

Those associated with him are George H. Wilkins, English explorer, veteran of two pole dashes and Stefansson's companion on previous expeditions; Dr. Isaiah Bowman, director of the American Geographical society and Malcolm Alexander Smith, 37-year-old Alaskan prospector and explorer. Wilkins and Smith have gone to Detroit to see Mr. Ford, Lieutenants John A. Macready and James H. Doolittle of McCook field have been invited to go on the Polar trip. It is understood they have been asked to visit Detroit to give their opinion of the proposed flight. They regard the flight as practical and would like to undertake it.

The proposed route is 1,425 miles—500 miles from Point Barrow to the pole and 65 miles over the tip of the globe to Spitzbergen on the other side.

FILES PROPOSAL

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—A project for a polar flight has been presented to the war department by William D. Mayo, chief engineer for Henry Ford, but officials have decided congressional authority would be necessary for government participation.

Mr. Mayo discussed the project with both secretary Davis and Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the army air service, suggesting that the army should lend flying equipment and personnel. The question was referred to the legal bureau of the war department and an adverse opinion was given.

The proposal was for a transpolar non-stop flight from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Spitzbergen next spring. On the basis of the legal opinion, Mayo was advised that if congress acted favorably on a resolution authorizing the war department to lend equipment and personnel, it would do so.

TWO VOLUNTEERS

Lieutenant James A. Macready and James H. Doolittle, army long distance flight record holders, are understood to have volunteered to attempt the trans-polar air expedition and to have made known their desires in this connection to General Patrick when he visited McCook field, Dayton, Ohio, on a recent inspection trip. They have not, however, filed a formal application for the detail.

The project is regarded by army air service officers who gained considerable experience by participation in the globe circling flight as involving difficulties of a nature entirely new to aviation.

CALL ELECTION ON UNION SCHOOL SYSTEM JAN. 12

COUNCIL WILL PUT QUESTION UP TO VOTERS

Four Districts Consolidated Into One for Purpose of Election

The school board will call a special election on Jan. 12 to decide whether Appleton should adopt a union school system as has been done by E. L. Williams, city clerk. The vote will be taken on a somewhat different basis than that of a year ago as a majority vote in the entire city will decide the issue rather than a majority in each district.

Two questions which will be placed before the voters for a yes or no vote are: "Should the city school plan be adopted?" and "Should the board of education be elective?"

A vote on the union plan to replace the present four district system, was authorized by the common council in November. The council at that time took advantage of a new state law by which the districts could be merged into one. The city will revert back to the four district plan if the union plan fails.

Difficulties of administering the schools with the amount of efficiency and economy was the reason why the council sponsored this move. The consolidation and organization of the union high schools gave a demonstration of the drawbacks of district union high schools demonstrated the drawbacks of district control and it was necessary to vest authority in superintendent of schools rather than in the principals of the school as formerly so that proper management of educational affairs could be established. It was found also that savings can be effected in centralized buying of supplies, fuel and other materials adding another argument for the need of a change.

Polling places will be open from 8 o'clock in the morning to 5 o'clock in the evening at the following places: First ward—First precinct at schoolhouse; second precinct at the school building at 322 E. Commercial; second ward—First precinct Central Motor Car Co. 127 E. Washington-st.; second precinct at home of city hall; third ward—First precinct 200 garage 517 E. College; second building at W. Spruce and 8 Outagamie-sts; fourth ward—First precinct Maple Grove st. and White-st.; second at Fourth and Second; fifth ward—First precinct at the garage building at stock farm ground; second at Richmond and Washington-sts; sixth ward—First precinct 223 E. Commercial-st; second at 508 N. Appleton-st.

BEGGS HEIRS SCORE FIRST IN TAX SUIT

Midwaukee —(AP)—Heirs of the late John I. Beggs, Milwaukee traction magnate, Monday lost a point in their fight to prevent the collection of inheritance and income taxes in Wisconsin on the greater portion of the estate when Judge Oscar M. Fritz denied an application of Mrs. Mary McCulloch, St. Louis Mo., to suppress subpoenas issued in an income tax hearing.

Mrs. McCulloch is a daughter of Mr. Beggs. She contended that the hearing was intended to bring out information concerning the place of residence Mr. Beggs since 1916 and other facts on which the state of Wisconsin and Milwaukee would be in a position to base a complaint for the collection of income and inheritance taxes. It is claimed that her father was a resident of Florida and not of Wisconsin at the time his death.

Attorneys for the state declared an injunction would be asked to prevent the tax hearing in January.

Any alumni member of Appleton Hi-Y club is welcome to attend the homecoming meeting of the club Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. according to club officials. Plans have been completed to make the affair one of the biggest events of the club year and a large number of former members is looked for. Only high school boys are eligible for membership in the club and when a boy graduates he automatically leaves the group. Alumni members as far back as 1918 are expected. It seems a very short time ago that I was a boy and in the midst of farm life myself helping to do the chores at the farm working in the corn and potato fields, getting in the hay, and in the spring time doing what most of you have never had an opportunity to see — making maple sugar."

RECOGNITION OF RUSSIA

It seems that a considerable movement is under way for the recognition of Russia. Political writers close to the administration have predicted that recognition is nearer than the public realizes. If that is so it must rest on the willingness of Russia to accede to the conditions laid down by Mr. Hughes when he was secretary of state. Two of these conditions were the payment by the soviet government of the just debts contracted by Russia, and the cessation of bolshevik propaganda in this country.

Reports from Moscow are to the effect that the soviet leaders are prepared to make these concessions, and will promise to keep their paid emissaries out of the United States. Whether they would observe the terms of such a treaty in good faith is a matter this country would have to gamble with if it undertook to restore political and commercial relations. England did not find it could rely upon their promises. Possibly Russia has profited by that experience and is ready to turn over a new leaf. Stalin, Russia's strong man since the death of Lenin, predicts "peaceful collaboration" between the land of the soviets and the capital countries. We expect to see this ourselves, but before it can take place Russia will have to live within its own theories and application of communism and not depend upon their extension to other countries to maintain the supremacy of bolshevik government.

If the Russian system can exist so circumscribed, and will let other countries govern themselves and manage their affairs as they see fit, there is no reason why we should not get along with it peacefully and deal with Russia the same as we do with other countries. We should not, however, permit ourselves to be swept off our feet by sentimentalists in congress, who are willing to approve recognition without guarantees, and who apparently are indifferent to soviet hostility to American institutions and the insidious propaganda it is conducting to bring about their overthrow. It is not a time to be influenced by sentiment. We can deal with bolshevism only with our fingers crossed and on a cold-blooded business basis.

WHAT CHICAGO IS AFTER

One of the things the Lake Carriers association convention, to be held at Detroit in January, should vigorously concern itself with is the mushroom enthusiasm generated by Chicago for the immediate development of a mid-western waterway system terminating at the mouth of the Mississippi river.

For weeks past effective propaganda has been waged under skillful direction. Cities located along the Mississippi and its tributaries have been stirred out of generations of lethargy into visions of a new era in river commerce if certain improvements can be secured. All that the creators of this movement want is a mere $100,000,000, and when they get through they are going to have a nine foot channel from Chicago to New Orleans, capable of floating flat bottom craft. It is a beautiful dream, comparable in some ways to the dream of New York when it built its costly barge canal across the state to secure the wonderful benefits of water transportation and which today, although one of the finest canals in the world, carries no traffic worth the name. We believe it will be the same with the mid-west waterway enterprise, if it is carried through at this time. We do not believe it will produce the anticipated results.

In the first place, commerce flows the wrong way to invite an extensive use of such a waterway. The decline into which the Mississippi and Ohio rivers have fallen, notwithstanding they have remained navigable, seems to be in point. The Mississippi river penetrates the very heart of the great grain growing mid-west. Why has not the mid-west collected its crops along its way and transported them down this stream to tidewater? How is the dredging of a nine foot channel to connect Chicago with the Mississippi going to alter the situation? Are the grain and other products to be hauled into Chicago by rail for the privilege of sending them backward down the canal to the gulf, necessitating three loadings and unloadings. We venture to say by the time this process is completed it will cost more than the rail rate to the Atlantic seaboard, just as has been the case with the New York barge canal in its inability to compete with rail rates.

We do not think Chicago itself has any delusions about the results of such a project. It knows that conditions are entirely different in this country than they are in Europe, where even short haul canals are profitably employed. What Chicago wants is protection in its theft of water from Lake Michigan for power and sanitary purposes. That is of greater concern to it than the movement of western crops and products to the Atlantic ports and the east. That is why it is so enamored of the Lakes-to-the-gulf waterway and so raucously sounding its praises. It is trying to make congress and the president believe that a critical situation exists in the mid-west because of inadequate transportation facilities and the lack of rates that can compete with water rates via the Panama canal. The mid-western waterway system is offered as an emergency measure for the relief of that section of the country. It is a plausible proposition which appeals to the imagination and is likely to gain the ear of the politicians at Washington. It will, of course, have the solid support of mid-western congressmen outside of the immediate Great lakes belt. If the country at large is not on its guard, the scheme will be put through before it awakens to the true significance of what is being done.

If the Lakes-to-the-gulf project is authorized it will not only be a blow to lake navigation because of the continued lowered levels it will certainly produce, but also because it will be at the expense of the St. Lawrence seaway project. The Lake Carriers association as an organization should do everything in its power to block this scheme and preserve lake shipping, to handle its case on the same scale and with the same craftsmanship that Chicago is handling its case. Whichever side can out-manuever the other in politics is the side that will probably win. Lake remedies are not available otherwise except in the contingency that our obligations to Canada may not make it possible for Chicago to drain Lake Michigan, even with the authority of congress, whose constitutional power in this respect, even domestically, has been seriously questioned by able lawyers. But we should not have to rely on this distant and uncertain hope. The place to block Chicago is in Washington, in the halls of congress.

SATURDAY
Monday and Tuesday and Wednesday to school Thursday and Friday the same, as a rule. Then comes old Saturday morning. Oh Boy! All of the school kids are shouting for joy.
"Nuthin' to do but to turn and play, after the errands are out of the way. 'Course, round the house little things must be done. That kind of work, though, is sorta like fun.
Skates are produced and the bob sleds come out. Neighborhood kids gather round with a shout. Off to the pond where it's frozen up tight. All through the day and way into the night.
Snow flakes have fallen and scenes are all set. Winter time sport is the best the kids get. Snow men are builded and snow forts are made. Snow battles raze on with kids, unafraid.
Far from their school work the young folks are torn, but few are the looks that are really forlorn. What is it makes them feel glad they were born? Freedom and play of each Saturday morn.
These are the mornings you wish the fire department's job was to come out and build your fire.
Anything can happen in this world. They found some men at Buffalo who were stealing money from Henry Ford.

FRACTURED RIBS AND CRACKED IDEAS
A fracture is a break, though only a crack. Ribs are fractured either by a blow or crushing violence or by compression of the chest. A big boy on his first visit home from college hugged his mother and broke two of her ribs. That wasn't so bad; some boys break their mothers' heart.
In good many cases the victim of fractured rib or ribs takes several days to decide his injury is severe enough to warrant the advice of the doctor. It hurts, but not enough to demand other than home measures. After a few days, however, the unsplintered fracture sets up inflammation of the chest lining and lung covering membrane, the pleura, and the pleurisy worries the victim.
As a rule two or three adjacent ribs are broken by a severe blow. They can't become much displaced, as fractured fragments do in other situations; the muscle and tendinous wrappings and bindings hold the fragments too securely for that. But the sharp broken ends of the bones rub together or on the pleura with every move of the arm on the injured side, with every breath taken, and that isn't a comfortable thing at all. The irritation of the pleurisy excites cough, and coughing when you have a few broken ribs is no fun at all, even though you are anxious to get all the sympathy you can.
In some cases of broken rib the victim expectorates bloody sputum after a day or two, from some injury to the lung. In other cases there follows soon after the injury an emphysema of the skin (air under the skin) and this sometimes spreads up the neck.
In short a reasonably proportion of cases of fractured rib present interesting features, as Holmes would remark to Watson.

The remedy needed in rib fracture is rest, for any activity increases the breathing movements and aggravates the disability. Sit down. Lie down. Lie on the injured side, so that most of your breathing may be done with the sound side of your chest. Carry the arm of the injured side in a sling, for any use of that arm, even the slightest swinging or hanging from the shoulder, stirs up the injury. A very tight wide bandage girdling the lower chest, or better, the firm support of adhesive plaster strapping as usually employed by the physician, limits the movements of the chest wall in breathing. Often the physician must administer anodynes to relieve the pain in the first day or two. If the patient is spitting blood enough to indicate hemorrhage into or of the lung, the administration of morphine sufficient to slow the respirations may be necessary, irrespective of pain. Here is where the skill of the doctor counts much.

And that being about all there is to say on the subject I may as well use the remaining space to penetrate the haze around the drug or "dope" phobia which not a few ignorant folk acquire from reading the "literature" peddled by short cut dealers of various sects or cults in their effort to attract patronage. One such faker who had made considerable noise of this kind in our community once sneaked into my office. He was a little afraid he had appendicitis or something equally serious. I asked him why he did not summon one of his own stripe to heal his trouble, and he winked as he reminded me that they were all out of date, for it seemed all the others of his cult had entered the game a year or more before his own advent and so of course they hadn't the latest twists. Well, that was pretty good, but I warned him that I might consider it necessary. Then I inquired why he had come to me, with so many good doctors in his own neighborhood. That was good, too; it seemed that I was honest. I would tell him the truth all the other doctors, at least in his vicinity, were just naturally dishonest. It was very good indeed. I had often wondered why all the other doctors had plenty of patients while I had plenty of—that rugged honesty which every liar swears he likes in a doctor. Well, I was still unsatisfied. I told my crooked patient that he must take some calomel, and he said he didn't care—I was the doctor. So I dug up a dose of that dreadful stuff, which has probably done infinitely more harm in the imagination of dupes of the fake healers than it has ever done in fact, and personally administered the dose to the unlicensed practitioner. Within a few days he was back at his job, telling the simp public about the horrors of "pills and poisons" and the delights of a simple twist by a well oiled wrist and he did a thriving business with the Wisenheimer family for several years, until an advertising club exposed him as a faker, even in his advertising—he had the habit of printing faked testimonials and even pictures faked up to represent "before" and "after," for it seems that there is nothing like a picture to appeal to the low grade mind.

Whether there are only 26 million morons in the country, as I estimate, or 45 millions of 'em, as Professor Meyer of Princeton estimates—so my friend the general tells me—is a matter which the professor and I can compromise when we meet. But anyhow there are enough of these self sufficient adults with minds of children 12 years old or less, to make a rich field for almost as many new fangled brands of healing as there are modern vagaries of religion.

Sunset and evening bell.
And oh the joy when we would lean upon the highly polished bar
That has now ceased to be.
But now that tide is wrapped in sleep
No longer bearing home

And topped with foam.
Sunset and evening bell.

All joy has fled afar;

No substitute for work, eh? But that seems to be the chief complaint of most workmen against many of the new inventions. They are constantly forcing more and more men out of work. How is a man going to live without working? Even the bootlegger, confidence men and Florida real estate men must work—the people.

COOPERATION OF PAPER MILLS WITH STATE POLLUTION ACT

Jasper is inclined to believe that instead of that being pollution's aim it is pollution's dream. For, he says, it takes a high degree of pollution to enable a man to visualize that.

We see that General Feng, the Christian general of China, has finally consented to his wife's wish to have her hair bobbed and used the shears on her himself. The verdict of most American women will be that that act constituted his conversion to Christianity.

9,000 QUAKES EVERY YEAR IN THIS OLD WORLD
Geodetic Expert Explains Three General Causes of Most Earthquakes

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.
Washington, D. C.—There are approximately 9,000 earthquakes in the world every year. A few are severe enough to be felt; the others merely trace out their tremors on the delicate seismograph. These disturbances, according to scientists, are something to be thankful for. They prove the adaptability of nature to abnormal phenomena, the ability to maintain an even balance. If, for instance, the Santa Barbara quake had not occurred—and quakes have been occurring in this region at more or less regular intervals for centuries—the strain on the fault at that point would have become so great that it would have broken down all resistance and the resulting cataclysm would have been one infinitely more disastrous than the one just passed. Likewise the Montana quake.
There has been much speculation as to whether these two disturbances were related. The United States coast and geodetic survey dismisses this question with finality. Dr. William Bowie, chief of the division of geodesy answers it with an emphatic negative.
Dr. Bowie explodes the theory that earthquakes are caused by a shrinking of the earth's crust due to the cooling of the interior. He says that this could not happen, and if it could not happen, it would not produce earthquakes. Also, he declares, it is debatable whether the earth is cooling, as there is reason to believe that there is enough radioactive material to maintain a high temperature that is relatively constant. He ascribes earthquakes to three fundamental causes.

These causes are: First erosion; second, sedimentation due to erosion; and, third, the readjustment of the earth's crust following the first two steps. This process has been going on through the geologic ages.

DEPENDS ON CRUST
The earth's crust is about 60 miles thick. This crust, composed of soil and rock strata, rests on a layer of material that is more or less plastic. When the weight of the crust remains the same this material appears to have the rigidity of adamant, but the slightest change will cause it to expand or contract, as the case may be.
Geologists estimate that during the various known eras there has been a total of 750,000 miles of rainfall on the earth. This rainfall, with the accompanying disturbances in the air causes erosion. During the course of one year billions of tons of sediment are eroded from heights all over the world and carried toward the seas through the drainage systems of the continents. Naturally, when this occurs, the weight of the crust at the point of erosion is less than before. Hence the plastic material beneath begins to push upward.

This is precisely what happened in Montana and at Santa Barbara. The Missouri river system carried the eroded material away from the heights in Montana, depositing it along the Mississippi valley. After so long a time the pressure from beneath became so great that a fault of rock slipped and the residents of the northwest experienced an earthquake. Likewise the mountains around Santa Barbara were lightened, and as California is a region of numerous rock faults there was a slip and an earthquake.

Q. How much weight will a square foot of airplane wing support? M. A.
A. It depends on the speed of the airplane, the shape of the wing, the angle at which the surface is presented to the direction of motion. Ordinarily, airplanes are loaded for about eight to twelve pounds per square foot.
Q. What does the word "Alme" mean? C. H. S.
A. It is a Persian word meaning prince or ruler.
Q. What are the bars attached to A. R. pins? A. J. C.
A. The number of bars on the insignia pin of the D. A. R. represent the number of ancestors who render patriotic service to the country.
Q. What products of this count are most in demand in Cuba? E. H.
A. The principal imports of Cuba from the United States are foodstuffs, textiles, metals and metal goods, machinery, and drugs.
Q. Who financed the first railroad built by the Baltimore and Ohio? G.
A. The original Baltimore & Ohio Railroad was financed through stock subscriptions principally from prominent Marylanders including "Chauncey Carroll" of Carrollton, then the surviving signer of the Declaration of Independence.
Q. Please name a few American sculptors of the modern school. R. J. C.
A. Among the notable ones are Minshiep, Janet Scudder, Evelyn Longman, Anna Hyatt, Daniel Chester French, Cyrus Dallin and Charles Gifford.
Q. What is the relative strength of the gelatine derived from agar-agar and animal gelatine? H. N. C.
A. The estimated strength of agar-agar is eight times stronger than animal gelatine.
Q. Why did John Oxenham turn from a business career and become a writer? H. P. F.
Q. The author says that he took to writing as an avocation and alternative from business; found it much more enjoyable than business, dropped business and stuck to writing.
Q. How many applications were made last year for patents and trademarks? T. A. H.
A. Applications for patents for inventions, designs, and reissues increased from 79,659 in 1924 to 82,271 in 1925; and trademarks, labels, and prints from 19,885 to 21,378. Fees collected and turned into the Treasury amounted to $2,042,276, a figure larger by $28,897 than during any previous year in the history of the Patent Office.
Q. Should children wear all wool or silk and wool underclothing in the winter? A. R. C.
A. Mixtures of cotton and wool or silk and wool are to be preferred. The mixed fiber in the garment maintains a more uniform body temperature and thus helps prevent cold. An undergarment made from a combination of wool and some other fiber is much less irritating to the skin than all-wool, according to the experts. It is also more easily cared for, as the silk or cotton prevents some of the shrinking. In all-wool underwear which has been washed many times the fibers shrink and become matted together. This prevents good ventilation and increases the scratchiness of the wool.
Q. What is the total value of the property belonging to Indians? D. J. A.
A. The total value is now fixed at $1,656,046,550. This estimate includes property of individual Indians and that held by tribes.

SHIOCTON POET DEEPLY IMBUED WITH RELIGION

Clintonville Hears Tribute to Rexford in Address by Minahan.

Special to Post-Crescent
Clintonville—An appreciative and faith-filled audience listened to Attorney E. R. Minahan of Green Bay Friday evening in the Congregational church when he talked on the life of the late Eben Rexford, poet and writer of Shiocton. He paid a glowing tribute to Rexford's memory as poet, writer, neighbor and citizen; particularly did he dwell on the man's modesty, simplicity and religious convictions. He read, among others, a poem, written by Mr. Rexford, "Christmas Bells" and their meaning, which betrays the mans deep religious mind.

"Clintonville is indeed fortunate," the speaker said, "to be in possession of these manuscripts and relics. He paid a high compliment to W. A. Olen, who acquired and donated them to the city library."

Miss Edith song "Silver Threads Among the Gold," written by Rexford, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Dodge, Miss Taft and Max Stieg followed with another song written by Rexford. A group of little girls and boys honored the poet with one his children's songs. Miss Myra Melillo presided at the pipe organ.

RED AND WHITE CAN'T STOP RUSH OF NORTHERNERS

Basketball Game of High School Ends with Score 12 to 5.

New London—The high school lost its second basketball game of the season to Clintonville in Knights of Columbus hall here Monday night, by a score of 12 to 5. The game was very one-sided. Doubts were expressed before the game started as to New London's chances for winning, but the team was expected to make a much better showing than it did. The Red and White showed little endurance all during the game, had little team work, and demonstrated inability to break up even a three man defense.

The first half ended with the score 6 to 5 in favor of Clintonville. The Red and White started out with Charlesworth and Edminister at guard, Cooley and Dornbach at center. Before the game was ended it was necessary for Coach Polonius to put in several second stringers in a vain effort to stop the northerners' onslaught. The greater part of the game was carried by Clintonville into New London's territory. Clintonville shot at will, and found no difficulty in making score after score. Dornbach, for New London played the best game but was unable to win while practically unaided.

After having been missing for a week, Delmore J. Kendall, box producer, has returned to his home at Norman, Okla. and refuses to explain his mysterious disappearance. GARBAGE PLANT, ALARM SYSTEM UP TO COUNCIL

Budget Provides Fund for Two Municipal Improvements Next Year.

Two matters which will come before the council officially for the first time after the holidays will be the purchase of a police call alarm and signal system and provision for garbage disposal. Appropriations were made in the 1926 budget for these projects, with $16,000 set aside for the police system and $25,000 for the garbage project.

The police system matter probably will be brought to a head by a vote of the council to advertise for bids. Several companies manufacture devices of this kind and one already has had a demonstration here. The purpose of the city is to add to the efficiency of the police department, not only by having the means of spreading a dragnet or summoning the fire force in a hurry but also by having a positive checkup on every patrolman as he makes his beat. Telephones, call boxes and a light and bell emergency summons are included in the system contemplated and accompanied by a recording and control equipment at the police station.

Action may not be taken as quickly on garbage disposal, as the aldermen will likely have an informal discussion on this matter as to the most feasible plan to use. Some advocate a collection system only and the engaging of some concern to dispose of the refuse. Others favor erecting a disposal plant at once.

ONE COUPLE QUALIFIES IN CHARLESTON CONTEST

Miss Gertrude Gartz and Peter DeLain qualified at Cinderella ballroom Saturday evening as entrants in the Charleston contest arranged by Charles Maloney, proprietor. Two Indian Blankets are to be given away at the dance Wednesday evening. A special Christmas dance will be held Friday night. The closing hour will be 1 o'clock instead of 12 and interurbans will operate at that time to take the dancers to their homes in various cities.

REPORT BLANKS HERE FOR FIRE CONTEST

Appleton's progress in fire prevention goes to Washington, where a report of the year will be summarized in a questionnaire received from the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in connection with the national fire waste contest. The information goes to Washington, where a grading committee will go over the reports of all cities in the contest sometime in February.

The city with the lowest fire losses and the best prevention methods will receive a shield at the annual convention of the national chamber. Four prizes are to be given.

Factors taken into consideration are: The amount of losses; observance of fire prevention week; clean-up campaigns; fire prevention instruction and fire drills in schools; training of boy scouts and girl scouts along this line; work done by clubs and organizations; extent of inspections; legislation; laws concerning stairs and elevators; use of sprinkler systems; efficiency of alarm systems; removal of hazards.

UTILIZE HOLIDAYS TO ATTEND CONVENTIONS

Christmas holidays make little difference to Lawrence foreign language teachers. Dr. L. C. Baker, professor of French and head of the department of modern languages, Miss Charlotte Lorenz of the Spanish department, and Prof. G. C. Cast of the German department will attend a convention

C. OF C. SEEKS VOTE ON RESALE MEASURE

Expressions concerning resale prices of merchandise will be sought from chamber of commerce members in referendum No. 47 of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Ballots will be sent out after the matter has been referred to the board of directors.

Legislation proposed at Washington is that which will prevent a dealer from selling a nationally advertised or well known article at a price below that which the manufacturer fixes as the amount the customer will pay. This subject has been an issue for a long time, and it is claimed that some concerns have been hampered seriously through the price cutting evil in competition.

A report has been prepared by the national chamber arguing both sides of the question. A committee probably will be appointed here to prepare supplemental recommendations, and Adam C. Remley, national controller of the Appleton chamber, will be the chairman.

Paul Nyström, merchandising expert who formerly was with the extension division of the University of Wisconsin in this locality, is one of the men who prepared the national report.

of the Modern Language Association of America at the University of Chicago from Dec. 29 to 31. Prof. Baker also plans to attend a convention of the Association of American University Professors during the vacation period.

SMASHES BIKE TELLS BOY TO BUY NEW ONE

Chivalry is not yet extinct in Appleton. So claim officers of the police department, where a deed of unusual generosity and kindness for this day and age was reported one day last week. The names of the two principals in the story could not be learned.

A small boy, who had parked his bicycle along the curb on College Ave., emerged from a store just in time to see a motorist drive up to the sidewalk and crush the bicycle beyond repair. Stricken with grief at the loss of his bicycle, the youth broke out in tears and showed no signs of stopping after an episode of several minutes.

The motorist appeared to be sorry for the damage he had done. Instead of reprimanding the youth for having his bicycle parked at that particular spot, the motorist approached the boy, patted him on the back and finally succeeded in drying up the tears. He then reached deep down into his pocket, extracted a roll of bills, peeled off $45 and handed the amount to the boy, at the same time pointing to a nearby bicycle store and telling the latter to buy a new one.

The youth smiled, thanked his benefactor, and started on a run for the store. The motorist also smiled and proceeded about his business, happier, perhaps, than the youth he had helped.

NOW WOMEN ARE TAKING TO MEN'S SLIPPERS

Hundreds of Appleton people will receive sheepskin foot warmer from Santa Claus, according to local shoe and clothing dealers, who say that the sheepskin slippers are popular sellers this year. The slippers are not only extremely comfortable to wear around the house, but are so heavily lined that they keep the feet perfectly warm even when one is walking on the coldest cement floor. The slippers have been popular with men for a number of years, but in the last year or two many women also are wearing them.

Neenah—Robbery of the Pearson filling station on Winnebago-ave. Sunday night, was frustrated by several shots fired by Stanley Pearson, a son of the owner.

Young Pearson was alone in the station at closing time and was counting up the day's receipts when a small car drove into the yard. Three men alighted and started to prow around the premises. Seeing one of the men sneaking around the corner of the building, young Pearson took a revolver from the desk drawer and shot several times in the air. The men scrambled into the car, which had been left running, and disappeared toward Oshkosh on route 15.

Cross-Stitch Rugs Make Yule Gifts

The popularity of the hand-made rug is still growing and every variety of handicraft seems to have been employed in the making of cheerful rugs and mats and runners, or which there is always a waiting spot in every home.

The very latest development in rug craft is the cross-stitched rug, which when correctly made, is beautiful, tough and durable enough to take a place beside the sampler worked in the same stitch, in which there also is a very definitely revived interest at present, says a writer in the Country Gentleman.

The rugs are very easily made and provide fascinating employment for spare moments. They are worked in the usual cross-stitch manner, but the foundation for them is a very fine meshed coarse canvas, which will permit of the use of heavy, durable yarn or of three or four strands of ordinary worsted. If it is impossible to obtain the very coarse canvas, stout burlap may be used. In its case make the stitches longer, making in two or four of the small squares of the fabric instead of one.

CHOOSING A DESIGN

In selecting designs for the cross-stitch rug, choose only those of ear, bold figures; too much detail will be difficult, almost impossible to work out and, as the figures will be very much magnified because of the coarse canvas and heavy yarn, it could be confusing to attempt to copy intricate patterns.

Geometrical designs are very good, designs of geese or ducks, worked in white or light gray on a background of blue, make pretty and valuable bathroom rugs; lambs, little geese or children are interesting for a nursery of the small son's or daughter's room; the den might have a rug with an Indian design, and so on.

There is seemingly no end to the attractive mats and floor coverings that are possible in this type of work, and they are all very easily made; the stitches go rapidly and the finished rugs will wear almost forever.

PROVIDING A SIMPLE FRAME

It is well to work on a frame, which may be a simple one of lath, but methods will enable you to keep a canvas taut and straight and to stitch evenly.

Take every possible care to cross-stitch the rug in the same way all rough as the work has a much more even appearance when this is done.

Line the rug with stout cloth or nap when it is taken from the frame; this will not only add years to its life but will make it far neater and more slightly.

The cross-stitch rug is more durable than the hooked rug, as each stitch, being firmly fastened, cannot pull out. It is never than the hooked rug and, because of the simple stitch and the large canvas, it literally seems to grow like grass under your hand.

"HARDNESS" OF FLAPPER IS HER DEFENSE

BY CYNTHIA GREY

"Frankly, I don't understand my daughter," a mother told me, "girls are different when I was young. They had the elements of good mothers and good housekeepers in them. I don't know what the race will come to if I must be carried on by today's flappers."

IT'S PROGRESS.

The flapper of today seems hard on her mother. She is impudent and independent. The mother knows her attitude toward life is wrong, but what she does not realize is that life will change this for her. In evolution we learn that animals develop according to their needs. The yster grew its shell because he needed it as a protection. The giraffe, needs his long neck and the kangaroo her pouch.

When animals develop too far in one direction, they bring on their own destruction, as did the mammoth mosquitos, who became too large and unwieldy as to body, and too vacuous as to head.

We all do exactly the same thing in our short span that the race has seen going for millions of years. We develop what we need to protect ourselves from our natural enemies.

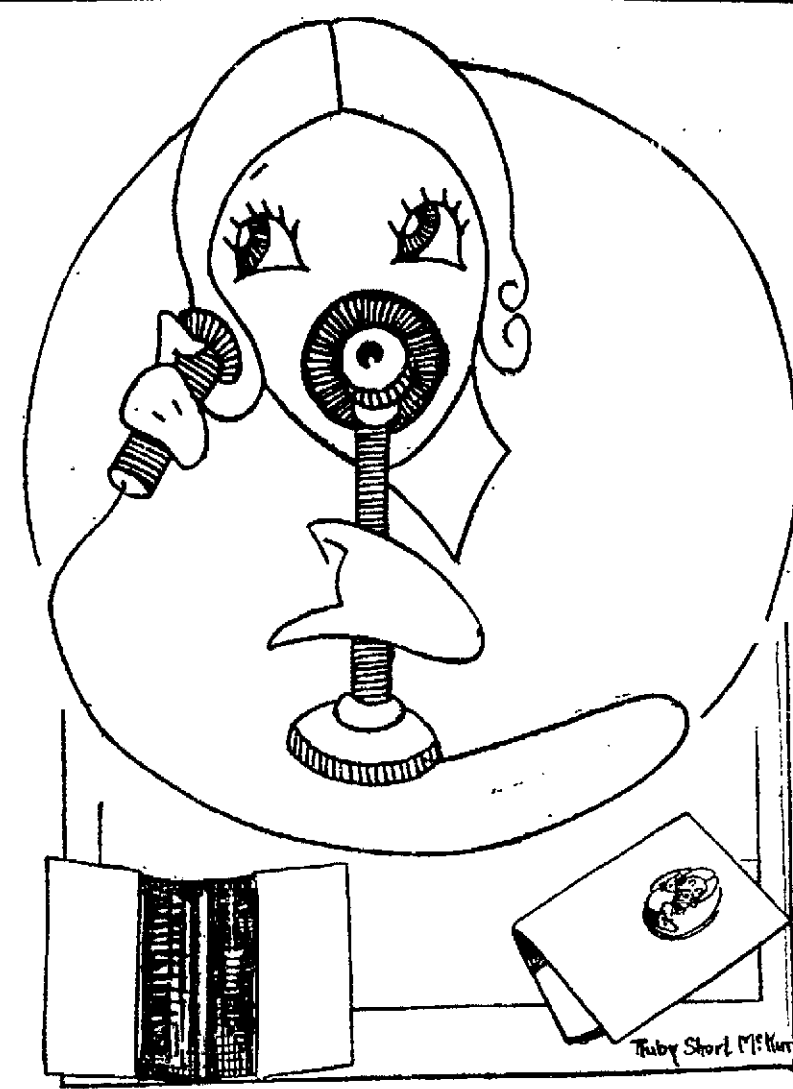

The flapper of today has developed something of a hard shell—we admit, but it is not this only her way of protecting herself. She's living in a hard age.

Women of even a generation ago had much more sheltered and protected lives than they do today. They lived at home. They were protected socially by chaperones and older women. They did not have to depend upon themselves to the extent they do today when social conventions are less exacting and a freedom such as has never before been experienced is apparent.

The "hardness" and defiance of the flapper today is her defense. It gives the world the impression she wants to create, that she can take care of herself, and that she knows what she is about.

"I'll call papa," the Mid Victorian Miss used to exclaim at unwelcome advances. "Don't get fresh," the flapper. How do you get that way? The idea is the same; only the phraseology is different.

PHONE BOOK LADY MAKES XMAS GIFT

BY RUBY SHORE MCKIN

Here's a poster, lady—surely she wouldn't gossip—that is designed especially for that ever-in-evidence telephone book. She may be embroidered in outline and linen stitch on linen or satin, or enameled on oil-cloth which makes a long, lasting, and practical cover.

This same design might be embroidered and tinted also which makes a charming combination. Who are you going to make this for in addition to yourself?

NEW WAY TO SERVE GOOSE THIS CHRISTMAS

Goose seems to be as traditional for Christmas as turkey for Thanksgiving. While every family have certain dishes they like to serve Christmas after Christmas each hostess likes something a little different when it comes her turn to entertain the kinsmen.

A different stuffing for the goose, an unusual sauce, an out of the ordinary salad or a novel dessert will add interest to the family dinner that may be orthodox in other respects.

Christmas is always essentially the children's day so the dinner should not be overburdened with forbidden foods. The vegetables should be carefully planned with the juniors in mind and while a "taste" of the festive dishes may be permitted, the simple, wholesome foods must be used to satisfy appetite and nourish.

And now for the goose. A so-called "green goose" is the choicest, but one up to 8 months old is good.

SCRUB GOOSE WELL.

Scrub the bird well with hot soap suds when it comes from the butcher. This removes some of the oil. Rub well after scrubbing and rub the inside with a cut onion. Season with salt and pepper and sprinkle inside and out with lemon juice. Rub the inside with salt pepper and powdered thyme. The bird is now ready to stuff.

Stuff and place on rack in roaster. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Put into a hot oven and roast one hour. Pour off fat. Dredge with flour and put a thin slice of salt pork on each side of the breast. Reduce heat and roast for two or three hours, depending on the age of the goose. The joints should separate easily when the goose is done. If a bird is more than 8 months old it should be steamed for two hours before roasting.

CRESTNUT STUFFING

Two cups cooked chestnuts, one cup stale bread crumbs, four tablespoons melted butter, two teaspoons salt, one tablespoon minced parsley, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, hot water to make moist about one-half cup. American or European nuts can be used.

CUTICURA HEALS LARGE PIMPLES

Hurt So Could Not Sleep. Ashamed to Go Out.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and my face did not hurt so much, and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Gladys Hatfield, Mead City, Ill., Jan. 30, 1925.

Books Make Ideal Gift For Child

While buying a three-tube radio set, a real electric motor and a few pounds of candy and nuts for your child's Christmas stocking, remember he may appreciate a book or so as well, urges Mary Graham Bonner.

She has written stories for children, has edited the children's book departments of several magazines and has just put out a new volume, A Parent's Guide to Children's Reading, in which she makes many excellent Christmas suggestions to adults.

"A child," says she, "has an infinite capacity for vivid imaginative creations which must be fostered by reading in spite of more modern amusements such as movies, radios and mechanical toys."

"In the old days children used their imaginations without any assistance. They believed in Santa Claus. The fact that Santa Claus was supposed to live 'way, way up north,' with his reindeer and had to travel great distances by sleigh did not bother them the slightest."

ROBBING IMAGINATIONS

"They knew he received their letters and heeded their pleas. 'Now along comes the radio. Wavelengths connect us with almost any station regardless of great stretches of country, and there is apt not to be the same vigor in the belief of making Santa Claus hear unaided. Imaginations are not required to be so keen."

Thus has actually robbed imagination of some of its glory."

She also deplors the tendency to denounce Mother Goose, whom she admits is quite frankly absurd but wholly delightful and full of value to a child's imagination.

"Only those with a deplorable sophistication of age can detect evil in 'Goosey, goosey gander,'" she says.

"Only those who have discarded their chuckles with babyhood can object to a cow jumping over a moon. Mother Goose appreciated the fact that children have judgement and humor."

We adults love Mother Goose, she claims, not that we read her in preference to Three Weeks, but because she is a part of our childhood, and we owe it to our children to see that they are introduced to her.

LET CHILD FORM OPINIONS

They will not, she assures us, regard her with adults eyes, that have read Freud and grown dull reading of complexes and fixations, but with our eyes when we are young.

The best way to form a child's literary taste is to give him a variety of good books, she points out.

"Don't force a child to read something you happened to like and about which you can stir in him no enthusiasm. Let a child form his own likes and dislikes and crystallize his own taste, by giving him a wide selection."

The value of books on science, history, and dealing with animals cannot be overestimated in supplementing a child's education, she reminds us.

"There are many naturalists and wild animals biographers who know how to 'write, and children read these books more eagerly than fiction."

"While cultivating the child's body and his mind, don't neglect his imagination," she concludes. "The more material we become and the more marvelous our inventions and our mechanical equipment becomes, the more necessary it becomes to give food to the growing fancy and to help the child's mind to soar where science and commerce cannot lead him."

BOX FOR GALOSHES

A wooden box placed just inside the rear door as a receptacle for rubbers and galoshes will save the busy housewife from a lot of cleaning up during the winter.

What Would You Serve With Salad?

BY SISTER MARY

The type of salad of course determines the sort of wafer or cracker to be served with it.

The hearty salad forming the main dish of a luncheon or supper should be accompanied by hot rolls or biscuits or sandwiches. The crusts are removed from sandwiches and any variety of bread simply made with butter can be used. If a filling is used it must be carefully chosen to bring out the flavor of the salad itself.

If the salad is a separate course in a luncheon or dinner then the "accessory" should be a crisp something, either hot or cold. The crispness is imperative and a hot oven for a few minutes easily does the trick.

A fruit salad served in place of a dessert may be served alone, particularly if cheese and crackers follow, but even then a crisp wafer adds much to the salad.

There are commercial wafers very delicate and delicious that need only toasting in the oven and brushing with butter to serve. Every housekeeper should learn the different brands and if they suit her needs and pocketbook use them. The busy woman may not have the extra minutes needed to make her own accompaniments.

Cheese crackers are simple to make and require little time.

Four tablespoons grated American full cream cheese, 2 tablespoons butter, paprika, small square crackers. Cream butter and work in cheese. Make a smooth paste and spread lightly and evenly on the crackers. Dust with paprika and toast just before serving. Put the prepared crackers on the toasting rack. While clearing the table for the salad course pop the rack in the broiler or a very hot oven. When ready to serve with the salad they will be hot and crisp.

Cheese cups require more time and work in their preparation but are unusually good.

CHEESE CUPS

Bread 24 hours old, cheese, melted butter.

Cut bread in slices two inches thick. Cut in small rounds, not more than two inches in diameter, using a sharp open top cutter. Make a depression in one end of each round of bread. Make the cup large enough to hold from 1 teaspoonful to 1 tablespoonful of grated cheese depending on the size of the cutter and individual taste. Dip cups in melted butter, fill depression with grated cheese and put into a hot oven to melt the cheese and toast the bread. Sprinkle with paprika and serve hot.

Cheese cups are served on each

The list of Good Fellows printed below will have to grow by leaps and bounds on Wednesday and Thursday if enough money is to be raised to provide for all the poor families requiring help this year. Last year the Good Fellows subscribed $2,300 and this year barely $1,300 has been paid in. The goal is $3,000 and every cent of that is required to carry on the work of the four societies co-operating through the Welfare council. At least 2,000 names should be printed in this list before the end of the campaign Thursday night. Less than 400 persons have joined the club thus far. If your name isn't on the list clip the coupon at once and send it with your membership fee. The poor need your help.

VAN NISTELROY GOING ABROAD NEXT MONTH

The Rev. F. X. Van Nistelroy, pastor of Holy Name church at Kimberly, and his housekeeper, Miss Anna Kroger, will sail from New York City on Jan. 2 for Holland, where they will spend about two months. They probably will leave Kimberly a few days after Christmas and will return to America early in March.

Father Van Nistelroy expects to spend some time with relatives and friends in Holland and also will journey to Rome to visit the pope. Father Van Nistelroy has crossed the ocean fifteen times.

The journey overseas will be made on the White Star liner Homia. Arrangements for transportation were made through the Frank Groh ticket agency.

SEVEN HUNTERS GO 50 MILES FOR ONE RABBIT

Rabbit hunting is almost as a sport but if seven Appleton hunters who journeyed 50 miles from home Sunday and spent the night on hunting the cottontails and to depend upon the results of the hunt for their next few meals, recreation would surely follow. Seven weekend business men embarked on a rabbit hunting expedition to Iowa Sunday morning entertaining hopes of bringing home a Christmas dinner for themselves and their families. After clearing around in the woods and traps all day they returned to the city in the evening bearing with them the big game of two or three rabbits. Then the hunters resolved to do their rabbit shooting in the back yards at home yesterday.

A Christmas program was presented by pupils and their parents of the Woodman school at the schoolhouse Monday evening. The program consisted of the singing of songs before Christmas. Miss Lillian Bremer is the teacher.

News About And For Farmers

YOUNGER COWS MAKE BIGGEST MILK INCREASES

Government Is Determining Relation of Age to Butterfat Yield.

It was well known that the butterfat yield of a heifer is not so large as that of the same cow at mature age. Hence it is impossible to compare records made by cows of different ages without adjusting for the age difference. To determine the value of a sire for breeding purposes it is necessary to compare his daughters with their dams and cows are not all tested at the same age. It is customary, therefore, to assume a certain average of rate of increase for every six months of age, and on this basis to calculate the mature production of a cow from her record at an earlier age.

The bureau of dairying of the United States department of agriculture has been making careful studies to ascertain the actual relationship of the production records of cows at different ages. These studies, which are reported in department bulletins 1552, were made with Guernseys and Jerseys. A large number of official records were classified according to age, and it was found that the increase for every six months is much larger in the earlier 6-month periods than it is as the cows approach maturity. Since the official testing requirements used by the breed associations assume equal increments for all the 6-month periods, it appears that heifers are considerably favored by the existing requirements, while cows of more than three years are expected to increase faster than they actually do.

MATURE AT FIVE
For both Jerseys and Guernseys the existing requirements assume maturity at the age of five years; but the studies made indicate that Guernseys are likely to mature a few months later, and Jerseys not until the age of six years. There is no increase in the official requirements after the age of five years, but in fact it is found that the records do improve, which gives an advantage to the older cows, though not so great an advantage as is given to heifers. In the study made by the bureau of dairying, it was found that cows tested are able to make higher records than those that have never been tested before. For this reason, only initial records are used in the tabulation that shows the effect of age.

The difference between initial and re-entry records represents two elements; one is the increment due to age, and the other is that due to development resulting from special care given to young cows undergoing their first test. There is sufficient evidence to prove that official testing develops the productive ability of dairy cows, and that the feeding and care, combined with the prolonged milking period during which the cow is encouraged to yield her utmost, have a positive and appreciable effect on her production during subsequent lactation periods. It appears that close to one-third of the improvement made in the re-entry record is the result of this development factor.

CUTS PRODUCTION
Another fact brought out by these studies is that pregnancy during the first reduces butterfat production, and the tax of pregnancy seems to increase with advancing age. While the young animals carry on the function of reproduction without affecting materially her productive capacity, the older cows do not stand up so well under the double strain.

A further interesting fact in this connection is the noticeable improvement in production records made since the beginning of 1920, especially in the last one thousand records. This rise is gradual, and seems to indicate that with the increase in experience gained by handling test cows the breeders have developed better methods of feeding, conditioning, and caring for animals on test. The effect of years of selective breeding for high production is also a force operating to raise these averages. Re-entry records made after a lapse of six years show a larger increase due to development than those made after a shorter interval.

SAY OPEN SEASON FOR FUR IS TOO LENGTHY

Washington—Too long open seasons on fur-bearing animals is causing many unprofitable pelts to go to raw-fur markets every year.

An open season of more than three months' duration is not justifiable anywhere in the United States, according to the Department of Agriculture.

A season longer than three months permits trapping before and after breeding season in the spring.

BETTER TEST YOUR SEED CORN STATE ADVISES

Freezeup in October Has Cut Down Germination to Surprising Extent.

Madison—(AP)—Farmers have been warned by the seed and weed control division of the state department of agriculture that "much damage" was done to seed corn by frost and they were advised to test their seed.

Late frost, after the corn ripened well in the field, made many farmers fail to realize how badly the seed was injured, the department stated. "The cutting of the corn was followed by two weeks of cool weather accompanied by rain and mists," it was stated. "This prevented the corn from drying. In fact corn that had been picked and hung on windmills, under porches, on the sides of buildings, or even on buildings without enough heat and ventilation, contained even more moisture at the end of that two weeks of damp weather than it had when it was harvested. So when the sharp drop in temperature came in October, much of the corn contained from 20 to 40 per cent of moisture. This was too much and the kernels burst as would a bottle filled with water and exposed to zero weather."

"Trials at the experiment station show that on ears of corn taken from the inside of the shocks and still protected by the husks, much of the seed failed to grow. What might be expected with corn husked and hanging anywhere outside. "Wherever corn was picked before the freeze and dried inside, it seems to be in excellent condition. Much of that brought in and dried after the freeze does not grow at all or produces weak sprouts."

"Any farmer who wants to be sure of a good stand of corn next summer should either test his corn himself or send representative samples of it to the state seed laboratory in Madison."

Good Food And Exercise Essential For Farm Sire

Washington—It is just as important to feed and exercise the dairy bull as it is the cow, says the U. S. department of agriculture.

Lack of good food and muscle development experts explain. Improper care renders many a valuable sire useless.

The amount of grain to feed to dairy sires varies from 4 to 10 pounds, depending on the size and condition of the animal and the kind of roughage. A grain mixture recommended by the department consists of three parts ground corn (by weight), two parts ground oats, two parts wheat bran, and one part linseed meal.

ROUGHAGE

Ground oats are considered especially valuable for bulls. Cottonseed meal is not usually regarded with favor, especially when fed in large amounts. Some breeders think it causes impotency.

Legume, hay, alfalfa, clover, vetch, soy bean, cow-pea—are excellent roughage, and should be fed liberally if possible.

From 10 to 15 pounds of silage a day with other roughages can be fed safely without impairing the usefulness of the animal. Dairy bulls should have plenty of water.

ACTIVITY ESSENTIAL

Many bulls have been found sterile or slow breeders, due to close confinement and lack of activity. Dairy bulls, especially, are difficult to handle in this regard.

Ways should be found, however, of keeping them in exercise, either in the pen or outside. Some farmers yoke bulls like oxen and use them to pull a plow to haul manure, or do other farm work.

Exercising arrangements may be put up in a large, roomy pen. Bulls may be induced to exercise themselves with an empty barrel or keg, by bunting or rolling it around the pen. A rounded block of wood, hung from the ceiling, is another way to get the bull to butt at something and exercise himself.

FARMERS' HOME WEEK AT CAPITAL FEB. 1-5

Madison—(AP)—Farmers and homemakers from all sections of Wisconsin will gather here Feb. 1-5 in the annual farmer's week.

K. L. Hatch, chief of the state's county agent staff, has just announced this annual conference of Wisconsin farmers, stockmen and homemakers.

Three planks will make up the "Buckler Farmers' platform for 1925. These are: "Economic production, quality products, and orderly marketing."

They were described as the "triple seal" of agriculture for the coming year.

Speakers of state and national note have been secured to address the gatherings. Sectional conferences will be held of dairymen, breeders, cow testers and homemakers.

TREATY ASKED TO BANISH COWS WHEN DISEASED

Texas Cattleman Leads Movement to Prevent Foot and Mouth Epidemic.

Fort Worth, Tex.—As a result of the disastrous hoof and mouth epidemic among cattle in this state, a movement has been launched here by the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers association for a stringent treaty by the United States, Canada and Mexico to keep out all livestock from all other countries endangered by the hoof and mouth and other animal plagues.

When the executive committee of the association met here like T. Pryor, millionaire San Antonio stockman offered a resolution favoring such a treaty. It was unanimously adopted and forwarded to Secretary of Agriculture J. H. Kellough, Secretary of State Kellogg and to livestock associations of every state and the three countries involved.

Its chief objective is to keep out South American cattle which spread epidemics, Pryor explains. Mexico obtains thousands of head from South America, which cause plagues among Mexican herds and these in turn infect herds on the Texas side.

The treaty, if adopted, will provide uniform quarantine regulations in each of the three nations.

At least 16,000 diseased cattle have been killed in southeast Texas.

After these had been destroyed to prevent spread all over Texas, 20 dairymen in the Galveston area obtained a temporary injunction prohibiting the slaughter.

In the meantime ten state had established embargos against Texas shipments of livestock and livestock products. The closing of every Gulf port in the state was threatened.

The injunction was dissolved, permitting the destruction of 2,000 more head. Had not the injunction been dissolved every state in the union would have raised bars against Texas shipments. It was predicted.

To repay cattlemen whose herds were killed will require more than $1,000,000. The recent foot and mouth disease in the state of California cost $100,000,000.

Cattlemen at the session here said that the authorities reported the present epidemic was brought in by hay and straw packed around containers filled with liquor for bootleggers, while the California outbreak was caused by refuse brought in by ships.

Pryor has had a conference with Secretary Jardine and expects the support of the secretary in putting over the three-nation treaty.

COOLIDGE RENAMES MAN REJECTED BY SENATE

The president also resubmitted to the senate the nomination of Thomas

FARMER TAXED TOO HEAVILY

Abolition of Tax on Automobiles Would Help, Says H.
H. Rice.

St. Paul—"Too much taxation is strangling the farming business," says H. H. Rice, chairman of the taxation committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

"Taxation is the first point where the farming business is suffering more than other lines."

"Studies by the National Industrial Conference Board show that the average farmer pays 18.6 per cent of his income in taxes, as compared with 12 1/2 per cent which the average citizen pays."

"The farmer doesn't have the option of taking the railroad train or the subway instead of the automobile. He must use his motor vehicle in order to reach these main lines of communication."

"The motor vehicle is the transportation line between the farm and the town."

"When the farmer buys a car or truck he must pay a tax of 5 per cent on the wholesale value and 2 1/2 per cent on any repair parts."

"Abolition of these tolls would give immediate tax relief on rural transportation to the extent of about $50,000,000."

F. Woodlock, of New York, who is serving as an interstate commerce commissioner under recess appointment. The senate last spring declined to approve Mr. Woodlock's nomination.

SOLVE HATCHING BY EXPERIMENTS

Affected Birds Are Eliminated
—Sex Determined Early
Under U. S. Plan.

Washington—The U. S. Department of Agriculture has completed a series of experiments for determining facts regarding poultry raising.

The experiments were made to determine the hatchability of eggs, to distinguish pullers from roosters at an early age and to obtain other similar information commercially important but hitherto.

Hatchability, says the department, probably is best improved by testing diarrhea and eliminating affected birds.

"The size of eggs has no significant effect on their hatchability."

There is no significant correlation between either shape or weight of egg and the sex of the chicken hatched from it.

While there is a fairly definite relation between the weight of eggs and that of the chicks hatched from them, there is no significant difference in the weight of either sex, and it is highly improbable that pulber chicks can be separated according to sex at hatching time.

However, male chicks grow faster than the females, and as early as two weeks of age, there is a significant difference in the rate of growth between the sexes.

LETTER FROM SALLY ATHERTON TO LESLIE PRESCOTT—CONTINUED

The Most Wonderful Clock
After Tick Tock had told the Twins all about Big Ben and showed them how the big clock worked and struck the hours and quarter hours and half hours, on beds that watched him and tons apiece, he said:
"Time is short, my dears, so I will take you to very few more places. There are still a few big clocks to be seen, and then after that I shall take you to see the most wonderful clock in the world."

"Sally dear, I have been such a disappointment to myself. Bee ya— how the big clock worked and struck the hours and quarter hours and half hours, on beds that watched him and tons apiece, he said:
"Time is short, my dears, so I will take you to very few more places. There are still a few big clocks to be seen, and then after that I shall take you to see the most wonderful clock in the world."

The clock fairy led the way from the clock tower, and after waiting down these limited and stately streets, the three young people again found themselves in a London street.
"We would see many wonderful clocks in Paris," said Tick Tock, "but we shall not stop. The most wonderful clock in the world is not there. Take my hand and I shall lead the way to a distant city."

"I found out then that I could not think of the little immortal soul that was to be entrusted to my keeping, because my mind was so engrossed in the chance in my own body. I found out the superior woman that I thought I was, was only a stupid little bundle of vanities—just as small and vain as these little moving nature things that I had always despised."

The fairy and the Twins were so down before it just as the big clock struck five.
"See!" said Tick Tock grandly. From where they stood, the Twins could see golden figures as large as real men walking about the clock. "They are figures of the Twelve Apostles," said Tick Tock. "They turn something at foreign to what I appear when the clock strikes. Besides, the clock shows the changes of the moon, and the calendar. That is the famous clock at Strasbourg."

"The whole thing struck me so queerly, that I had one of those fantastic ideas that we read of in those terrible French stories of de Maupassant, who, you know, delighted in terrifying ideas.
The fantastic thought came to me down before a wonderful cathedral, that in some supernatural manner another soul had managed to get into Big Ben's body when she was under the influence of the anesthetic."
Don't smile, Leslie. I know I'm rambling in a perfectly ridiculous manner, and that this idea is almost as crazy as was poor Bee's last. I'm sending all my reactions to you that you may know how peculiarly her conversation affected me.

"No," said Tick Tock, "Come on. The clock I am going to show you took a thousand men to make."
"My goodness!" said Nancy. "It must be as big as the world."
"You'll see!" was all Tick Tock would say.

The whole thing struck me so queerly, that I had one of those fantastic ideas that we read of in those terrible French stories of de Maupassant, who, you know, delighted in terrifying ideas.

He took them down to a little house on the edge of a small town. "And now, if you'll look in through the kitchen window, you will see the most wonderful clock in the world," he said.
The Twins pressed their faces close to the pane, and there in the faint light of the coming dawn, they saw a plain, homely old clock hanging on the wall. Its face was thin and cracked, its case old and shabby. A point was broken off one of the hands, and a hinge had been replaced by a piece of string.
"What are you talking about, said the Twins in surprise. "It isn't wonderful at all!"
"Yes, it is," said Tick Tock. "It is very old to begin with and five generations of people in this house have lived by it. The children watch it for school time, the mother watches it when she bakes, and when she feeds the baby, the father goes to work by it. By it they go to bed and get up. By it they live. It is the oldest old family clock—the most wonderful clock in the world."

WEEK'S SCHEDULE
TUESDAY—FOND DU LAC—Appleton at Kimberly.
WEDNESDAY—APPLETON AT MENASHA.
 Saturday—Kimberly at Fondy.

With two exceptionally hard games booked for this week, the American Legion cage squad, Appleton's representative in the Eastern Wisconsin Home Talent League will put up a hard fight to move out of the cellar berth. The local crew has held the position since a disastrous start, losing to every team in the loop, although there still is some doubt as to the Fond du Lac loss, several Fondy fans even declaring Appleton was robbed. The Legionnaires have put in a hard week of work finishing it off with a practice battle with the Little Legion squad Monday at Little Chute Legion hall. The boys all looked good for the week's battles.

Fondy, Appleton's oldest rival, comes here Tuesday evening with a lineup of stars and Wednesday Appleton travels to Menasha to hit the team which started them on the to-baggan. Fondy's lineup includes such men as Irish Dolan, star of last year's Fondy high crew, Bill McKinley, another former Fondy high star, and several amateur speed merchants. On the Appleton floor a battle royal is sure to ensue as Fondy won by only a basket at Fondy after Appleton has lead all the way.

Menasha's chief threat is Emmet, all-district high school forward last year. The speedy Paul garnered seven baskets and a few free tries to beat Appleton almost single-handed in the first tilt and he will be under close guard Wednesday night on his home floor. Other Menasha stars are Grace, Kelly, Weyenberg, Hohles and Spengler. Weyenberg has a tough tilt with the loop-leaders, Kimberly, Tuesday night.

Manager Holzer probably will start Prazer, old Orange star, at center with Reetz in reserve. Prazer's six baskets kept Appleton in the running in the Appleton game at the Fountain city. At Fondy, Holzer will have Schenck, Hagen and Courtney, with the forward jobs taken care of by Heide, Hambeck, R. Tornow and S. Tornow. Several other promising men also are on the squad. Fondy's probable starting lineup will include Sonn and McKinley, forwards; Watson, center; Dolan and Brown, guards.

The Appleton five won the first game 15 pins but lost the second by 37 pins. In the third tilt however, 37 pins came back to the local side of the ledger.

SIX OSHKOSH MEN WIN PLACES ON ALL STATE TEAM

River Falls, Tied for State Teachers Title, Given Only Two Positions.

Oshkosh—(P)—Six Oshkosh Normal school football players have been selected on an all-normal team selected by the sports editor of The Advance, the school's paper. River Falls and Eau Claire are credited with two players each on the mythical team, and LaCrosse with one.

The newspaper says: "As a quarterback and captain, Jerdec is superior to any man in the conference. His generalship is excellent and his passes, which are both long and short, are very accurate. Some critics rate him as the best forward passer in the state, universities and colleges included. He also is a good punter and a great open field runner."

"Besserdick made gains consistently during the season by means of line plunges and end runs."

"Dahl of Eau Claire, a ten-second man, is the fastest back to wear a normal school uniform. Evans of Milwaukee, receives honorable mention as halfback."

Dawson of River Falls, at fullback is an all-around man. Besides being a good kicker and passer, he is a good open field runner and is the best conference line plunger. "McKee is a tower of strength at center. He passes the ball to the quarterback well, he opened up big holes in the opposing line, and opposing teams could make no gains through center."

Bredendick and Johannes are a pair of guards that could break through any normal school line. "Kuehl of LaCrosse, and Brennan of Oshkosh, are two tackles that played consistently throughout the season and stopped many a dashing halfback."

Heggen of River Falls, and Selous of Oshkosh, are by far the outstanding ends of the Normal School conference. Both are good open field runners and are good at putting down passes. Very few gains were made around their ends throughout the season."

At Minnesota they still call Johnny McGovern the greatest quarterback the Oshkoshers ever had and one of the best football has yet produced.

Connie Mack will have at least three second basemen next year in Max Bishop, Jimmy Dykes and Bill Wambegans.

Harry Heilmann of Detroit, is one of the few right-handed hitters to have led the American League batters three times. He has determination and the nerve to put over big things.

Nevers of California is an all-around athlete. Aside from being the almost universal choice for All-America, he's a star pitcher and crack crack man.

In an effort to keep the mopping up to the high standard that has prevailed for a number of years, both big leagues have strings on several promising pitchers.

Rogers Hornsby, a pretty good right-handed hitter himself, says Jim Bottomley, his first sacker, is the best left-handed batter in the National.

"Doc" Garreau of the Boston Braves was literally chased out of the American League by umpire Bill McGowan gave him the gate one day for nuzzling him from the bench. That night, Connie Mack's soul left.

Glenn Warner, now football coach at Stanford, has developed many of the gridiron's greatest stars, among them being Jim Thorpe and Ernie Nevers.

Coach Phelan of Purdue says if Quarterback Taubie had been on a winning team this fall he would have been one of the most respected players in the country.

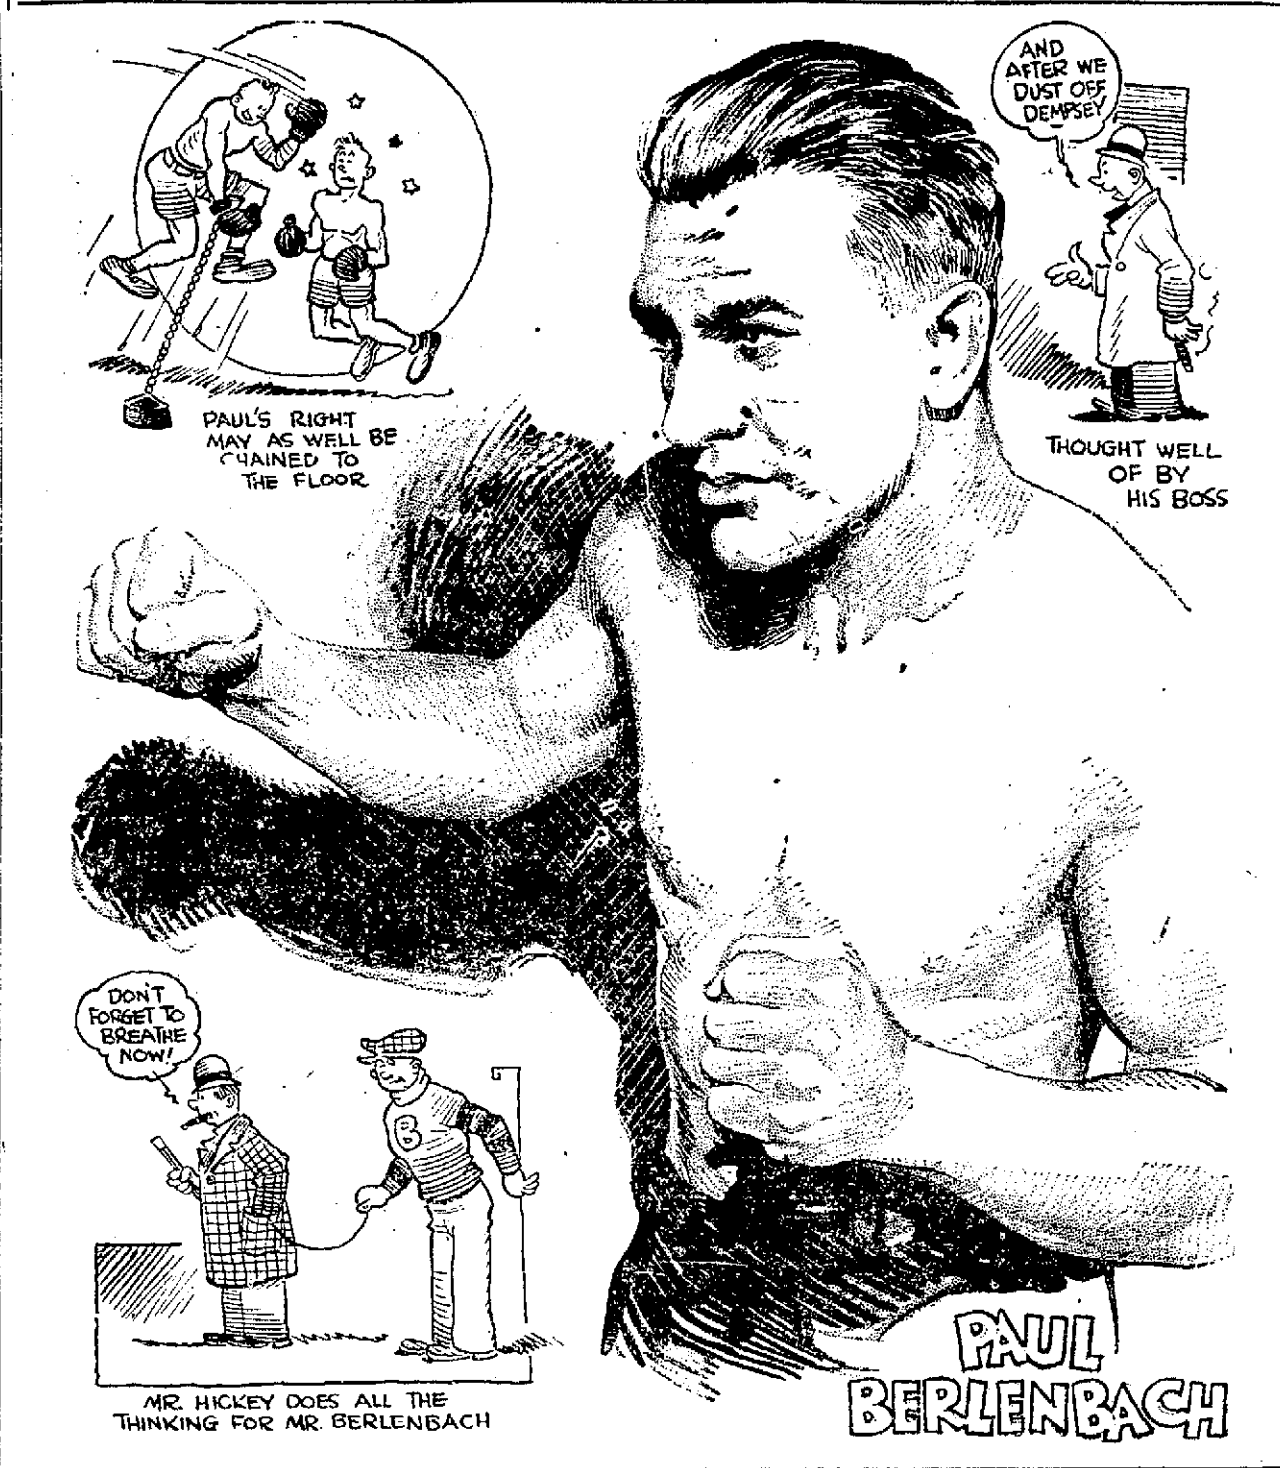

The big money "Red" Grange is reputed to be making has caused many of the football stars to make the jump into the professional game without waiting for their college degree and diploma.

Sam Jones of the Yankees, has been in three world series but has never won a single game, though charged with two defeats.

Walter Johnson says he would like to beat Cy Young's record of 22 years as a big league pitcher, but doubts if he will be equal to it.

MP IS ONE-HANDED LIGHT-HEAVY CHAMP FIGHTER

Berlenbach, Once Deaf And Dumb, Now Champ

New York—Paul "Em" Paul Berlenbach will never rank with the immortals of the prize ring, despite all the glowing praise you may read of his potential powers as a coming heavyweight.

Pound "Em" Paul, I am convinced after seeing him defend his title against Jack Delaney, Canadian sharpshooter, is simply a one-handed fighter, possessing incredible stamina and courage.

Pound "Em" Paul can hook with the left and send the punch over the straight. Though he does not seem to be a master of timing, the Manhattan Dutchman manages to get considerable power into the blow. The effect is that of a jarring jolt, rather than an explosion.

But Pound "Em" Paul employs his right hand solely for defensive purposes. If it were not for this it would be easy to enthrone over Berlenbach as a possible conqueror of Jack Dempsey, in months to come. A strictly one-handed fighter seldom catches up with lasting fame, and this is what Pound "Em" Paul seems to be.

Old Man Hickey, who manages the Dutchman, thinks he is the ring's new man of destiny. Hickey relates how Berlenbach was deaf and dumb at the age of two following an attack of scarlet fever; how he had these faculties restored 10 years later by accidentally touching a live electric wire; how he took up wrestling and went on to win the Olympic championship; how he decided of his own accord that boxing was better suited to his temperamental and muscular gifts, and how, starting as a preliminary fighter two years ago, he climbed gradual degrees to the light heavyweight championship.

Berlenbach is Hickey all over. The once trainer and mentor of old Bob Fitzsimmons, completely dominates him. Hickey's moods are Berlenbach's. Hickey's thoughts are Berlenbach's. Berlenbach's own personality is completely submerged in the older man's influence.

If Hickey were to tell Berlenbach to fight Dempsey and Wills in the same ring tomorrow between the fashionable hours of three and five, he would do it unhesitatingly. And if Hickey added "these two fights will be push overs for you," Berlenbach, not stopping to analyze the situation himself, would believe it.

Hickey is boxing instructor at the New York A. C. That is where he and Berlenbach met. Berlenbach was an amateur wrestler at the time. He began fiddling around with the gloves. Hickey ignored him. Berlenbach worked all the harder. One day Hickey put on the gloves with the youngster. The story is Berlenbach crumpled the professor with a left hook to the body right off.

Whether this is one of the picturesque little legends that spring up to furnish conversational background for a new and sudden success, I don't know; but at any rate Hickey immediately became Berlenbach's manager.

Hickey is credited with being the author of the famous "shift," with which Fitzsimmons gained so many of his notable triumphs in the younger years of the sport. This shift consisted of a bluff to hit with the right hand, followed by a quick planting of the left in the waistline.

It worked perfectly on Jim Corbett and brought the heavyweight championship to the speckled Cornishman.

Berlenbach does not use the shift at all. It is not hard to understand why either. The shift is a strategic maneuver demanding shrewdness and mental trickery. Fitzsimmons was excellently equipped to use it, but Berlenbach is about as cagey as a wooden Indian.

EUROPE FIGHTS AMERICAN HOLD ON SPORT MARKS

Prospects for Success of Foreigners Favorable as Athletes Invade U. S.

New York—(P)—Europe is concentrating its attacks on the U. S. leadership in sports with some prospect of individual success.

Tommy Milligan, of Scotland, Edouard Mascart of France and Rod and Todd of England all boxing champions in their home lands, are in the front ranks of the invaders and George Carpentier of France, former light heavyweight champion of the world, would join them if promoters in this country would furnish antagonists. Emmitio Spalla, Italy's great heavyweight, is expected here within the next few months. But Americans must face opposition from abroad in several other sports as follows:

Skating—Clas Thunberg of Finland called the Nurm of the ice. Track—Charley Hoff of Norway, champion pole vaulter; Herbert Houben of Germany and Adrian Paulen of Holland, sprinters; Albin Stenroos of Finland Olympic Marathon champion.

Golf—Archie Compson, pro champion of Great Britain and the outstanding British linksman of 1925; Arnaud Massey open champion of France.

Swimming—Eric Rademacher and Gustav Froelich respectively breast and backstroke swimming champions of Germany.

Thunberg—An Olympic champion—Arrived on the Levithan Monday prepared to compete in various championships in which he will encounter America's speediest bladesmen.

Invitations have gone to Hoff, Paulen, Houben and George Goodie of England from the A. A. U. and these foreign track celebrities are expected to participate in several indoor meets this winter.

Compston and Massey are to sail from England Tuesday and their first match will find them opposed to the American amateur Champion, Bobby Jones, and his clever little protégé, Watts Gunn, at St. Augustine, Jan. 3.

Rademacher holds several world breaststroke records while Froelich has made backstroke time that has been seldom beaten in America.

Joe Gossens' quintet of the Kimberly Boys' Basketball League tightened its grip on first place in the loop Saturday morning by nailing out a 3-6 victory over Hoffkins' team, but La Berge and Williams' teams battled into a five-minute overtime period before a tight defensive game was settled in La Berge's favor by a 4-2 margin. The win put La Berge's boys in a tie for second place. Dupont's five lost to Schwank's crew, 10-6, and the Courchane squad dummied Vandervelden's shooters, 8-4. The games were all well-played and hard-fought with the Kimberly clubhouses courts as the battleground.

Vandervelden's team, in a tie for fifth place in the loop race, has a lead in sportsmanship with a near-perfect standing of .992.

Buffalo, N. Y. — Jimmy Slattery, middleweight, defeated Ray McCormick, light heavyweight champion of Ireland, 10 rounds.

NEENAH BOY PICKED FOR ALL-STAR TEAM

Clarence Bredendick, former Neenah high school all-around athletic star, now shining at Oshkosh Normal, was chosen for a line position on the all-normal conference team for 1925 picked by the Oshkosh school paper, according to reports from the Sawdust city. The Neenah boy, though only a freshman, is already an outstanding athlete at the normal school and seems destined to make quite a reputation for himself in a few years. He played regular on the grid squad and his ability to break through an enemy line with the best of them gave him the all-conference berth in opinion of the selectors. He also is playing a neat game of basketball on the 1925-26 grade squad of the Sawdust school. He played on the Neenah high team which went up to the semifinals in the state meet last year.

Newark, N. Y.—Pete Latzo, Scranton, Pa. won a newspaper decision over Bermondsey Billy Wells, welterweight champion of Great Britain.

BRITISH DENY PRICE FIXING ON RUBBER

London (AP)—Officials of the British government Tuesday emphatically denied that the government has been "manipulating" prices of crude rubber and said that the suggestion made in the United States that Great Britain is endeavoring to pay her war debts out of the rubber profits is pure nonsense.

There also are statements that a temporary fall in the price of rubber may be expected during the year, but that unless consumption is severely curtailed it will be in excess of full production with a year or two.

British rubber companies are declared by the Daily Express to have increased profits about 50,000,000 pounds during the year 1925. America's purchases, exceeding $100,000,000 formed the greater part of this enormous transaction. As a consequence of the large earnings many rubber shares have risen to four and six pounds.

ESTIMATE COST OF NEW STREET AT $150,000

Diagonal Highway to Junction
Will Cost More Than It's Worth, Alderman Says.

The purchase of a strip of land along the south side of the Chicago and Northwestern railway tracks from S. Cherry st. to Appleton Junction for the construction of a road would require, in excess of $150,000, was the estimate made by the commission Monday afternoon following an inspection of the property in question.

Although a strip of 60 feet wide is required, it would necessitate the buying of several residences which are located in this area, as well as property belonging to several other homes and factories.

The route for the proposed diagonal road would also necessitate construction of a viaduct over Mason st. in the opinion of E. M. Connelly, city engineer. He estimated that $20,000 would build an excellent structure.

COST IS TOO HIGH
Following the inspection, when the commission returned to the city hall for an informal meeting, Alderman Mark Catlin stated it was his opinion the cost of the project was all out of proportion to the need of it now or at any future period.

He pointed out that there were few factories located along the proposed road and at the junction and that the manufacturing establishments were for the most part located farther north and nearer College-ave.

The question which the council must decide at this time is whether there is ever any possibility of the proposed road being carried through. Mayor John Goodland, Jr. declared, if not, he said it would of course be foolish to purchase the property.

That the city should attempt in every way possible to carry out the suggestions made in the city plan was the expression of Alderman C. D. Thompson. He said it was his belief the property along the tracks should be purchased now before any more buildings are erected. This is the last chance and if the council decides not to proceed with the plan, it probably will be the last opportunity, he declared.

No definite action was taken on the question Monday afternoon, the meeting being informal. It was laid over until the next regular meeting.

Following the trip along the railroad tracks the council conducted an inspection of the Linschmidt-Meyer building which has been proposed as a house to the police, fire and street departments.

Alderman Catlin was instructed to obtain figures showing what expenditures would be necessary to remodel the building for the city use, and to present the figures at the next meeting.

"The time is not far distant when the city will need additional room for police and fire departments," Alderman Catlin said. "We should have a larger building, capable of housing both departments, and the building should be centrally located."

Action on the purchase of the building probably will be taken at the next regular meeting of the council.

ORANGE SQUEEZE FIVE WHIPS BAY PINWOMEN

Orange Squeeze girls bowling team took revenge for a past defeat Monday evening on the Arcade alleys when they whipped the Kelly's of Green Bay two out of three games, to take the match by the wide margin of 238 pins. Though the Bay girls were no match for the local misses, the games were much more exciting than the scores indicate and a large crowd witnessed them. The Squeeze team lost to the Bay squad by 20 pins at Green Bay recently but bowled a much better game on their own alleys.

The Green Bay girls, capped the opener by 23 pins and after that were whipped decisively in the remaining hits. M. Tarnow of the winners was the star of the evening, piling up the pins for the high series of the match at 533 and scoring the only double century mark of the fray, an even 200. A 477 by E. Smith was high series for the losers and her 191 also was high game for the Bay pinbusters.

PAVING OR CITY HALL. PROBLEM AT BELOIT

Beloit is trying to decide whether to build a new city hall or to remodel the one built in 1904 and is trying to plan for the future. Wisconsin cities which will help to solve the problem, according to a letter received by E. M. Connelly, city engineer. He is asked for facts as to the amount of paving that has been done here and the properties it bears to the total mileage of city streets. Beloit officials evidently intend to build the city hall if it can be proved that the city is as far advanced in paving progress as other places.

Persons familiar with Beloit declare they could well undertake both projects at once. The business section is poorly laid out, and a paved base instead of concrete and so rough surfaced is an obligation to crawl along to prevent damage to cars and persons of the occupants. The city also has no city hall. The offices are located in two different places, in rooms above stores.
